One of the benefits of using JPA and Hibernate is that they make it very easy to manage associations and to use them in queries. But as you've seen in this post, there are a few pitfalls you should avoid. So, when you model your next many-to-one or one-to-many association, please make sure to: Not use unidirectional one-to-many associations

As we have seen in section 2, we can specify a many-to-one relationship by using the `@ManyToOne` annotation. A many-to-one mapping means that many instances of this entity are mapped to one instance of another entity – many items in one cart. The `@ManyToOne` annotation lets us create bidirectional relationships too.
